Statement from the Z-up theatre company on the cooperation with Janus Djurhuus Rose

In 2004 the Z-up theatre company had a new graphical profile designed by Janus Djurhuus Rose: a homepage and a logo. The way in which we cooperated was indeed a mutually creative process in which both parties concerned took part. During the process Janus was fantastic at inspiring us with different graphic designs and artistic ideas that renewed our conception of what a graphical profile could be.

Janus had an ability, even with small means, to create striking and different solutions that emphasized our profile in comparison with competitors.

At the same time he kept the practical details in mind concerning our needs relative to our target group and spent much time understanding our company and our ideas.

From the beginning to end, Janus worked in a serious manner with the problem in question. He preserved a good grasp of the entire process, which had the effect, that there was lots of space for the open phase of inspiration but also that the process was focussed when necessary especially concerning deadlines and results.

After having finished our graphical image he rendered us help in homepage- updating and similar problems we encountered. In this way he made sure that there were no loose ends.

Furthermore Janus has a professional network that has proven itself useful to us concerning leaflets etc.

We give Janus Djurhuus Rose our warmest recommendations
